DAY BY

New York, July 1 .-I have a friend.

Who thinks everybody.

He will introduce me.

To some of his friends And say: "This is McIntyre."

And being truthful

And I will shift.

They will always say.

Around on one foot.

But the other day.

I got a real joit.

In the same old way

And the fellow said:

"He is the fellow."

"Named a dog after."

That this collie dog

Which bears my name. Has won all the prizes

At the big dog shows

At the American Kennel Club.

And is registered.

Under my name.

Knows the dog.

With my name.

And everything.

There are only a few.

Of us famous guys.

With dog press agents.

But there is one fellow

I would hate to own.

Not to let McIntyre.

Substitute for the dog.

That I only had

Was pie footed.

The Fruits of Bolshevism—Suppression of Free Speech.

Every individual bit of real information regarding what is going on in Russia shows that Bolshevism has resulted in less freedom, instead of more freedom, except for the Bolshevist leaders and their mercenary army.

In view of the cry of the Bolshevists in America for "free speech," the situation in Russia is all the more startling.

In "A Letter to American Workingmen" by Lenine, published in the Liberator of January, 1919, Lenine makes the following state-

While the old bourgeois and democratic constitutions, for instance, proclaimed formal equality and the right of free assemblage, the constitution of the Soviet repudiates the hypocrisy of a formal equality of all human beings. . . Since we here are concerned with the task of overthrowing the bourgeoisie, only fools or traitors will insist on the formal equality of the bourgeoisie. . . . Our Soviets have taken over all the usable buildings in the cities and towns out of the hands of the rich and have placed them at the disposal of the workmen and peasants for meeting and organization

In an article in the Bolshevist organ, Pravda, republished in the Liberator of September and October, 1918, Lenine said:

The nearer we get to complete military suppression of the bourgeoisie the more dangerous become for us the petty bourgeois anarchic inclinations. And these inclinations cannot be combated except by propaganda and agitation, by the organization of emulation, by the selection of organizers; they must be combated by compulsion.

The following decree, issued by Zinoviev and published in the Bolshevist organ, the Northern Commune, of September 13, 1918, shows the conditions under which meetings may be held:

1. All societies, unions and associations-political, economic, artistic, religious, etc.—formed on the territory of the Union of the Commune of the Northern Region must be registered at the corresponding Soviets or committees of

The constitution of the union or society, a list of founders and members of the committee, with names and addresses, and a list of all members, with their names and addresses, must be submitted at registration. 3. All books, minutes, etc., must always be kept at the disposal of representatives of the Soviet power for purposes

4. Three days' notice must be given to the Soviet, or to the committee of the village poor, of all public and private

All meetings must be open to the representatives of the Soviet power, viz.: the representatives of the Central and District Soviet, the committee of the poor and the kommandatur of the revolutionary police force.

6. Unions and societies which do not comply with those regulations will be regarded as counter-revolutionary organ-izations and prosecuted.

Reading this decree in connection with the declaration of Lenine it is easy to see why there are no public meetings of protest against the Bolshevist rule. This decree reminds those who knew Russia in the past of the suppression of free speech under the Czar.

Light is shed upon the results of this decree by a quotation from Pravda of August 6, 1918 (Pravda, according to Max Eastman of the Liberator, is the "Bolshevist organ.") A passage reads:

Kazan, August 4.—The Provisional Congress of the Soviets of the peasants has been dissolved because of the absence from it of poor peasants AND BECAUSE ITS STATE OF MIND IS OBVIOUSLY COUNTER-REVOLUTIONARY. If a Soviet Congress is dissolved because it does not agree with the Bolshevist rulers, what chance would an ordinary meeting stand? Evidently "freedom of speech" in Russia means freedom to praise Lenine and his associates.

The First Instead of Last.

A Western State, that has more than a million population, recently jubilated over the fact that during the year its savings accounts had increased $10,000,000.

Which meant that during a year of prosperity, during a time INTERMARRIAGE BILL when the worker received more than double his usual wage, the average family had increased its savings account about $70. But, during the same time the average family spent $10 for three
